SECRETARY GENERAL'S MESSAGE

It gives me an immense pleasure to share the 'Second Newsletter' of OICOA. The fundamental building principle of every Ombudsman institution of OICOA is derived from Islamic concept of accountability. We, at OICOA strongly believe that a peaceful society contributes towards a peaceful world. The agenda of peaceful coexistence can only be achieved through transparency, rule of law and just system of addressing grievances. This puts a huge responsibility at every Ombudsman Institution, which we endeavor to carry out with commitment and resilience.

'Let's grow together' has been the mandate of OICOA, which I strongly believe can only be enhanced through cooperation and working together. Knowledge is power that has the capacity to transform and generate new ways of growth. Islam also provides great impetus for the human pursuit of knowledge. Quran urges the mankind to think, ponder, reflect and acquire knowledge. If we follow practices of collaboration, I am hopeful that coming years of OICOA will be more productive and high yielding.

While sharing the "Second Newsletter" of OICOA, we show solidarity and sympathy to our Moorish brothers and sisters in this catastrophic earthquake that brought havoc to Morocco on September 10, 2023. Being an Ombudsman Organization, we are the advocate of justice, tolerance, protection of human rights and equality. We all call on the Swedish authorities to punish all perpetrators of this ugly and shameful act. I am sure with the support of member countries we can build and strengthen our association. May we all be guided by the principles of justice and righteousness.

TAJIK CHILDREN'S OMBUDSMAN CONCERNED OVER TEEN SUICIDES

Tajikistan's Children's Ombudsman's Office said in its annual report on June 11 that 69 people younger than 18, including four with psychiatric conditions, committed suicide in the Central Asian country in 2022. Although the number is one-quarter the number of suicides among teenagers in 2021, the situation remains worrisome, the report concludes. Four people were brought to justice for actions that led to a child's suicide, it said. There have been many cases of young women killing themselves and their children because of domestic violence in Tajikistan in recent years.

In 2022, 69 minors committed suicide (hanging) in Tajikistan. The Office of the Children's Ombudsman says this figure is four fewer than in 2021, but remains alarming. Of these, 38 were boys and 31 were girls. According to the annual report of the Children's Ombudsman in Tajikistan, six minors are mentally ill, and 63 other cases of teenage suicide are unknown. The report was prepared and published in 2023.

"In connection with these events in 2022, four people were convicted of committing suicide," said the report of the Children's Ombudsman. "Violence in the family in many cases leads to unpleasant consequences, such as the separation of families, committing suicide and committing other serious crimes... The suicide of women, including those with small children, remains a concern," - said in the report of the Ombudsman or Commissioner on human rights in Tajikistan

OMBUDSMAN OF REPUBLIC OF INDONESIA

THE IMPORTANCE OF NATIONAL INSIGHT FOR THE ASSISTANT TO THE INDONESIAN OMBUDSMAN

The importance of awareness of unity will give rise to ideas, attitudes and determination that originate from the nation's cultural values which are translated into national insight. This was conveyed by Member of the Indonesian Ombudsman Hery Susanto when delivering the material "National Insight and Vision of Indonesia" before the Assistant Ombudsman of the Republic of Indonesia Class of 2019 - 2021 in Latsar and National Defense, Friday (1/9/2023) at the Batujajar Kopassus Special Forces Education Center, West Bandung. According to Hery, national insight is needed to anticipate the emergence of degradation of the sense of pride as an Indonesian nation, the loss of the example of national leaders and the growth of KKN (corruption, collusion and nepotism).

Apart from that, national insight can also reduce resistance to national/local policies that are unfair, which can foster the potential for social injustice, the rapid flow of globalization and technological/IT advances and politicalism that emphasizes one's own/group interests, thus forgetting the interests of the nation. "National insight is very important to eliminate feelings of disrespect for plurality or diversity, as well as the development of a sense of intolerance and hard-line ideas, radicalism and terrorism," stressed Hery. He also explained Indonesia's Vision for 2045 and the global challenges that will be faced in the future. That in the period 2016 to 2045, the Indonesian economy will be able to grow up to 5.7 percent annually by continuing to carry out structural reforms, taking advantage of the demographic bonus and technological progress, as well as increasing economic competitiveness. Hery hopes that the State Defense Latsar activity, which was attended by 63 Assistant Ombudsman of the Republic of Indonesia, will be able to realize the vision of an Indonesia that has superior human resources, an Indonesian society that upholds pluralism, is cultured, religious and upholds ethical values, as well as creating a free society and government apparatus. from corrupt behavior.

The general treasurer and member of the board of directors in the Asian Ombudsman Association noted: I firmly believe that the ombudsmen, after passing through the initial stages of institutionalization and the many problems of this period, are entering a stage where the factors causing disruptions in the organizational functions with the origin He paid attention to the interior and designed solutions to deal with it.

Dr. Khodaeian stated that ombudsmen gradually become powerful in the course of time, adding: therefore, not abusing power becomes one of these points of attention. He continued: In their work, ombudsmans face parties that are not equal to each other in terms of having power, access to resources, and having information, so ombudsmans must observe impartiality in their investigations. The principle of fairness was one of the other important legal principles that the head of the inspection organization emphasized by reminding that ombudsmen are required to comply with it in their activities. He stated: both the people who refer to the ombudsmen and the issues investigated by them are not of the same type, for this reason, compliance with the principle of non-discrimination is placed on the agenda of the ombudsman as a very important principle. Dr. Khodaeian reminded: The constant emphasis on observing the professional ethics of the ombudsman will protect this institution from the problems that it may face in the future.

Clarifying the principles of ombudsman professional ethics, presenting precise definitions and examples of these principles, considering ways to strengthen the aforementioned principles, using the experiences of others regarding the obstacles to the flow of these principles in the field of practice, finding the main bottlenecks in the implementation of ombudsman professional ethics principles and methods of persuasion And encouraging ombudsmen to adhere to the aforementioned principles as much as possible was one of the requirements that Dr. Khodaian emphasized as a prelude to judging the maintenance of ombudsman's professional qualifications.
